Chancellor's Message

Prof. Awwad Alkhalaf

All praise is for Allah—Lord of all worlds. And may His peace and blessings be upon the leader of the righteous, Prophet Muhammed, his family, his companions and those who follow him.

The emirate of Sharjah flourishes with institutes of knowledge and centers of art and culture that draw on its religion, language, heritage and experiences. Al Qasimia University (AQU) is one such young institution which has contributed to the country's march for excellence in knowledge, development, and creativity, based on the vision of its founder His Highness Sheikh Dr. Sultan bin Mohammed Al Qasimi, Supreme Council Member and Ruler of Sharjah - may Allah protect him. The university, as bright as sunshine, is a gift from His Highness to the entire world.

AQU aims to build a generation of learners, upon Islamic values such as tolerance, affection and moderation. To achieve this noble goal, the university is making great strides in providing an enriching experience that combines teaching and learning along with nurturing values and creativity by adopting a rigorous curriculum and employing experts in the fields of education and management.

The university spares no effort in providing all kinds of support to its students so that their energy is invested in seeking knowledge with sincerity; honing their skills; conveying the teachings of this religion of tolerance to others and fulfilling their duties as Muslims and citizens of their respective countries.

Just as AQU is keen to advance its core mission in teaching and learning according to approved academic standards, it is also making great strides in strengthening its leading role in scientific research and community service.

May Allah grant us success.

Overview of the University

Al Qasimia University (AQU) was founded in 2013 under the Royal Decree No. (2), 2013, issued by His Highness Sheikh Dr. Sultan bin Mohammed AlQasimi, Supreme Council Member and Ruler of Sharjah, to establish a distinctive Islamic-Arabic university in the emirate of Sharjah named "Al Qasimia University".

Positioned at a prominent location in the University City, AQU has an environment-friendly campus built with the latest systems of highest standards and combines the beauty of Islamic architecture and splendor of designs. In order to achieve His Highness's vision of it becoming a beacon of excellence in higher education and academic research - guided by principles of Islam and open to the world - the university has an integrated set of services which create an attractive and distinctive educational environment for students.

The university's vicinity spans over 1,036,049 square meters which includes the Administrative Building, House of Islamic Manuscript, library, auditorium, mosque, colleges and residential halls for both male and female students as well as faculty members.

AQU has various segregated colleges for both male and female students. These are: College of the Holy Quran, College of Sharia and Islamic Studies, College of Arts and Humanities, College of Communication and College of Economics and Management. Each college consists of 17 lecture halls, 12 faculty offices and offices of the dean and assistant dean.

The three-floor Administrative Building, with an area of 6692 square meters, consists of offices of the Chancellor, vice chancellors, deans and 80 offices for the administrative staff of the university. Furthermore, it includes 24 lecture halls, in addition to computer labs, self-study areas, meeting rooms, the Drawing Hall, eating and resting areas, stationery shops, prayer rooms and two branches of the Sharjah Cooperative Society.

University Vision, Mission and Goals

University Vision

Al Qasimia University is a distinguished multi-cultural academic hub that promotes progress in the sciences, humanities and the values of dialogue. It bases its activities on the guiding principles of Islam which endorse tolerance and openness to the whole world.

About the Center

The Sharjah Center for Islamic Economics was established at the University of Sharjah in 2014, under the directives of His Highness Sheikh Dr. Sultan bin Muhammad Al Qasimi, Member of the Supreme Council of the Union and Ruler of Sharjah. Subsequently, in March 2021, the center was relocated, upon His Highness's directives, to the campus of Al Qasimia University. This move was in alignment with His Highness's vision and aspirations to establish a center dedicated to Islamic economics, emanating from an academic institution rooted in Sharjah with a global mission—namely, Al Qasimia University.

The Sharjah Center for Islamic Economics aspires to become an international reference in digital Islamic economics and finance, in line with the rapid global shift towards advanced technological applications in the economic sphere.

Vision

To become an international reference in digital Islamic economics and finance.

Mission

Excellence in connecting the labor market with advancements in digital Islamic economics and finance by developing its tools through research, encouragement, and application in accordance with best practices and international standards.

Objectives

The Sharjah Center for Islamic Economics at Al Qasimia University aspires to be a leading institution at the local, regional, and international levels in the field of Islamic economics and banking studies and research. It aims to achieve excellence in contemporary studies and scientific research in Islamic economics by delivering the highest levels of quality and adhering to global research standards while keeping pace with the evolving Islamic financial industry.

To achieve this ambition, the center's administration has established three primary objectives that serve as the cornerstone of its efforts to support the Islamic financial industry:

1. Conducting studies and research on advancements in digital Islamic economics and finance.
2. Developing and fostering practical digital ideas in Islamic economics and finance.
3. Training and developing human resources in digital Islamic economics and finance.

    - If the number of academic warnings obtained by the student during his studies at the university reaches five.
    - If the student receives two academic warnings from a study program and then transfers to another study program, in which he also receives two consecutive academic warnings immediately after the transfer. It is not permissible to transfer in this case to another study program.
    - If the student's GPA falls below 1.00 point more than once during his study at the university.
16. The summer semester is not included in the calculation of semesters for academic warnings.
17. The registration department shall inform the student and the concerned department of the decision of academic probation or dismissal from the university, with a copy of the decision kept in the student's personal file.

18. If the student exceeds (70) credit hours with a cumulative GPA of 1.95 or more and obtains the fifth warning, the student is given the opportunity to study in an exceptional semester to raise the cumulative average to the required level.
19. If the student obtains a cumulative average of less than (2.00) points after attending the study for two semesters since the start of his studies at the university, the Dean of the College will issue him the first academic warning after notifying the Admission and Registration Department, and reduce his academic load in the next semester to the prescribed minimum.
20. The student undergoes an intensive academic advising program in the semester following obtaining the warning in cooperation between the student's college and the Deanship of Student Affairs, provided that the program takes into account the academic and psychological aspects to help him remove the academic warning, raise his cumulative average, and direct him to repeat the failed courses or those in which he obtained grades less than good.
21. If the student is unable to raise his cumulative average to (2.00) points in the following semester, or if he drops to less than (2.00) points by the end of any subsequent semester, he will be given a second academic warning, and the college will consider the following possibilities:
    - Change of major within the college due to academic probation.
    - Transfer to another college due to academic probation.
    - Continue in the same major, based on the recommendation of the academic advisor and the approval of the Dean of the College.
22. If the student is unable to raise his cumulative average by the end of the semester following in which he received the second academic warning, or if he drops to less than (2.00) points at the end of any subsequent semester, he will be issued the third academic warning and dismissed from the university due to poor academic performance.
23. The student shall be treated as a non-probation if changing his major or transferring to another college results in raising his cumulative average to at least (2.00) points.
24. The student is dismissed from the university if his cumulative or semester average falls to less than (1.00) point more than once throughout the period of his study at the university.

Re-study Courses

- The student must re-register in the compulsory course or courses in which he fails within two semesters of his failure.
- The student must re-register in the elective course or courses in which he fails, or register in another course or courses alternative to it according to the approved study plan for him, in which case the alternative course or courses is considered a repeat course for the elective course in which he failed in terms of calculating marks in the semester and cumulative average.
- A student who is expected to graduate and whose GPA is less than (2.00) may re-study any course he has previously passed with a grade of (D, D+), for the purposes of raising the cumulative average.
- If the student repeats a course, the highest mark will be calculated for him.
- In all cases, all courses studied by the student and the grades obtained in these courses shall be recorded in his academic record, with a special symbol placed in front of the repetition or repetition grades that are deleted when calculating the cumulative average.
- When a student repeats any course, the hours of that course are included in the calculation of the credit hours required for graduation only once.

Drop and Add

- The student is allowed to withdraw from one or more courses or add one or more courses with the approval of the academic advisor within a period of one week from the beginning of the study in the regular semester, and within three days from the beginning of the study in the summer semester.
- The student is allowed to, with the approval of the academic advisor, to withdraw from studying one or more courses within ten weeks from the date of the start of the study in the regular semester, and during the first four weeks of the start of the study in the summer semester. In these cases, a note is recorded in the student's academic record (withdrawn without failing) and if the student does not withdraw within the prescribed period, he is bound by the courses in which he registered. In all cases the number of hours in which the student registered in the semester may not be less Regular study for (12) credit hours.

Suspension of registration and dropping out of school

- By a decision of the Admission and Registration Department and the approval of the academic advisor and the dean of the concerned college, the student's registration may be suspended at his request (and after his attendance at the university for at least one semester)

while retaining his grades obtained before the suspension of registration, if he has a compelling excuse that prevents him from attending the study, within a maximum period of four weeks from the date of the start of the study in the semester in which the suspension of registration is requested, and the college shall be informed of the matter.

- If he continues to have an excuse after the expiry of the period of four weeks referred to in paragraph (a), the student's registration may not be suspended except by a decision of the Council of Deans and the Registration Department shall be informed of this.
- If the student interrupts the study without submitting a request to suspend his registration within a period of four weeks - without violating the provisions related to failure due to absence - his registration shall be compulsorily suspended by a decision of the Admission and Registration Department and with the approval of the Dean of the concerned college. The grades that the student obtained before stopping his registration shall be retained. The concerned college shall be informed of the decision and the scholarship will be canceled after four weeks.
- The College Council may allow a student whose registration is compulsorily suspended, in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (a), to re-register if it is proven that his interruption from studying at the university was for a compelling excuse, and shall inform the Registration Department accordingly.
- A student whose registration is suspended is not entitled to demand the calculation of a course or courses studied at a university, college or higher institute during the period of suspension of voluntary or compulsory registration.
- The duration of the student's interruption shall be counted in the maximum allowed limit for study.
- The suspension of disciplinary registration is compulsory and the duration of the suspension is calculated as part of the maximum period of study at the university.

Examination Procedures

- If a student fails to take the end-of-semester exam for a course, without an excuse accepted by the dean of the college that teaches that course, he is considered a failure for what he failed.
- If the student misses the final exam for an excuse that is accepted by the dean of the college, the student’s grade will be (incomplete). The dean shall inform the registration department of this.

- The student must remove the grade (incomplete) within a maximum period of (two weeks) from the beginning of the next regular semester. An exam shall be held for him in what he missed, in coordination with the course teacher and the department. The result shall be submitted to the registration department during this period; otherwise the registration department assigns him a grade (F) in the exam he was absent from.
- In the event that the excuse does not disappear within the period specified in paragraph (B-1), the College Council may consider the student withdrawn from the course (or courses), and the letter (W) shall be recorded for him in his academic record.
- The result of the (incomplete) exam is recorded in the semester in which the course was studied.
- If the student's graduation depends on the course in which he obtained a grade (incomplete), the student is considered a graduate of the semester in which the grade (incomplete) is removed.

Student Performance Assessment

- Course marks are marked in letters according to the points indicated against each of them:

Value in point	Mark in letters	Percentile
4	A	90 to 100
3.5	B+	85 to 89
3	B	80 to 84
2.5	C+	75 to 79
2	C	70 to 74
1.5	D+	65 to 69
1	D	60 to 64
zero	F	Less than 60

- The minimum passing mark in letters is a mark (D).
- Grades in points for the semester and cumulative averages shall be assigned the grades shown against each of them:

Points	Appreciation
3.60 and more	Excellent
3.00 to less than 3.60	Very good
From 2.50 to less than 3.00	Good
From 2.00 to less than 2.50	Satifactory
Less than 2.00	Weak

- Any of the previous averages is calculated by multiplying the points of each course by the number of credit hours for that course, and then dividing the sum of the resulting product by the total number of credit hours for all courses.
- The semester average is the average of the points of all courses studied by the student in that semester as success or failure, and the student has a cumulative average at the end of his second semester at the university.
- The cumulative average shall be the average of the points of all courses studied by the student pass or fail until the date of calculating that average.
- The semester average or the GPA shall be rounded to two decimal places.
- The name of the outstanding student is placed on three lists: the list of the Chancellor, the list of the dean, and the list of the dean of student affairs according to the university's honor lists, and their regulations.
- The final mark for each course is the sum of the marks of the final and midterm exams and the semester work.

Program Completion and Graduation Requirements

Minimum and maximum limits for awarding the BA degree

- The minimum period spent by a student studying at the university to obtain a bachelor's degree is six regular semesters, except for summer study.
- The period spent studying for a bachelor's degree may not exceed nine regular semesters.
- The permitted suspension of registration is not included in the calculation of this period.
- A semester is calculated as equivalent to every (15) credit hours calculated for the student in his study plan after transferring or changing his major, whether the transfer is from inside or outside the university.

Student Levels

Students registered for a bachelor's degree are distributed at four levels as follows:

First Year	Zero – 30 credit hours

About the Deanship

The Deanship of Student Affairs was established to serve students as the core of the educational process. It aims to build their character and develop them academically, intellectually, socially, psychologically, and physically. The deanship works to nurture students' talents by creating a supportive university environment that enhances their positive attitudes toward education and life. It encourages participation in various cultural, social, athletic, and artistic activities. Additionally, the deanship seeks to engage students in national events, seminars, conferences, cultural lectures, festivals, exhibitions, competitions, and trips at both local and international levels.

Vision:

Innovation in student activities and enhancing student engagement to serve the local and global community.

Mission:

Providing a suitable environment to create a distinctive and attractive university atmosphere for students by complementing the academic process at the university. Striving to provide the best resources and facilities for students to enhance creative and exceptional student engagement, and integrating students into the university, local, and global environments through voluntary and humanitarian work.

Goals: The Deanship aims to:

1. Preparing a plan for student programs and activities that refine students' skills, enhance positive values in their personalities, and nurture a sense of positive citizenship within them.
2. Contributing to building and strengthening proactive leadership qualities among students, identifying promising young leaders, and supporting them to adopt and develop their skills to serve their nations.
3. Encouraging students to invest their free time in developing their skills and channeling their energies into productive work.
4. Instilling a spirit of belonging, loyalty, dedication, and discipline in students.
5. Assisting and supporting students in overcoming challenges through the Center of Excellence for Counseling and Guidance, supervised by the Deanship.
6. Encouraging student initiatives and transforming them into tangible projects that serve the university, local, and even global communities.
7. Embracing students and creating an engaging student environment that supports their academic pursuits and boosts their self-confidence and abilities.

Responsibilities and Services

The Deanship of Student Affairs provides its services by specific departments that work together to achieve the university's vision and mission. They are the Department of Cultural, Social and Recreational Student Activities, the Scouting Department, the Arts Department, the Mahara Center, the Psychological Counseling and Guidance Department, and the Housing Department.

Student Services

Academic Advising

Students in the program are divided into groups, and each group is assigned an academic advisor to assist them in course selection and academic planning, and guidance. The administration sends a list of the names of academic advisors who have been appointed to all students, and informs the college registrar of the updated lists each year or semester. The university allows students, except those who are under probation, to register online. However, in public meetings and through the use of information posters, the administration encourages students to consult with and take advice from their academic advisors.

Students first choose their own courses, then submit their choices to their advisor for discussion and approval. Advisors also help students make changes to their courses during add-on periods, and can recommend that students withdraw, add, change, and re-study courses to ensure their continued success in thier study. Counselors may discuss special circumstances and personal problems affecting their students and provide guidance to them. The department also discusses special issues related to students' academic progress. Special requests received from students (regarding registration, student progress and special circumstances) are evaluated by the advisor, who makes an appropriate suggestion, after which the requests are sent through the college to the Student Affairs Committee for further evaluation. in addition, students with warnings are assigned academic advisors to monitor thie progress during their studies in the program, identify problems that they may face and guide them on ways to solve those problems.

Student Counseling

The the Student Counseling Department is affiliated with the Deanship of Student Affairs and seeks to achieve its vision in building the integrated personality of the university student and achieving balance in his personality in all aspects, whether psychological, social, mental, emotional or in skills.

The Counseling Department is committed to the scientific values of the Secretariat and the confidentiality of information, and the continuous development of training and treatment programs, and diagnostic methods. In light of the global philosophy that believes that the university student is the focus of the university's attention and the educational process in all its departments, the student's educational achievement is linked to the amount of his life skills and mental health, so this department is keen to achieve the following objectives:

- Helping the student to solve his problems, overcome life's obstacles efficiently and effectively, in addition to developing his personal skills in which he shows weakness or that he lacks, overlooks or forgets them.
- Providing counseling services, training courses and workshops individually and collectively throughout the student's study at the university.
- Follow-up students with low levels of academic achievement, find out the reasons for this, and offer programs that contribute to raising their motivation to study and achievement and help them overcome the obstacles they may face.
- Supporting students with special needs during their university life.

Professional Development

Career Guidance

Since the general mission of the university in the development of the student is to educate, rehabilitate and train him, and build his intellectual, cultural and specialized values to be an active member in the development of society, the process of building his personality professionally is one of the obligations of integrating this mission to which the university is committed through the preparation, education, training and guidance of the student professionally or functionally. Due to Al Qasimia University's specificity of accepting students from all over the world, career guidance will include training students in their home countries as well as conducting training seminars and graduation projects related to the countries and places where they are expected to work after graduation.

This is achieved within a number of objectives, including:

- Work to formulate relations of trust and mutual respect between the university and institutions, companies, factories, bodies and associations operating in the country.
- Employing these relationships in creating job opportunities for university graduates.
- Activating feedback tools through graduates, and submitting results and suggestions to the university to benefit from them in correcting the process of academic, scientific and training work in accordance with the requirements and needs of the labor market.
- Holding special exhibitions that would identify the needs of the labor market, by meeting representatives of companies and institutions that may contribute to finding training and employment opportunities for university students and graduates.
- Involve students in representing the university in local, regional and international exhibitions, festivals, conferences and competitions through their contribution.
- Building a basic base for acquiring skills and experiences that may reflect positively on professional and career life, by participating students and graduates in courses and workshops held by the office in preparing CVs, conducting personal interviews, writing and preparing letters and other correspondence related to applying for jobs to search for work.

Student Training

Because student development is the main axis on which the university works within the framework of its general mission, students' practical training should keep up with their theoretical scientific qualification in order to achieve integration between theory and practice.

The second axis of the office's tasks is to provide academic and administrative care for the student in his professional steps before engaging in the labor markets in which the student encouonter the real wold in which they are going to work. Another responsibility of this office is that it is entrusted to train the student to realize their specialized and professional responsibilities through contact with cadres and elements of the fields of work. Therefore, the student is required to completet the field training courses as part of their study plan in order for them to obtain their degrees.

Student Clubs

They are student work teams that are under the direct supervision of the Activities Department at the Deanship of Students' Affairs. They play an important role in building educational and life experiences for students, and provide them with the opportunity to practice non-academic activitie that help them integrate into the university community, in partnership with their colleagues who share the same interests and hobbies.

The Student Activities Department at the Deanship aims to achieve the objectives and mission of the department by instilling positive values and various skills in the hearts of students, such as: communication, teamwork, leadership skills, respect for the opinion of others, and the importance of voluntary work.

Through student clubs, talents are discovered, creative, and innovative and positive energies are invested; experiences are developed, and directed to serve the university community and the external community. The student will benefit from these activities after graduation because they will qualify him to be more integrated in the labor market.

Objectives of Students' Clubs

- Instilling positive human values in the students, and encouraging them to volunteer work and serve the internal and external community.
- Encourage the student to think positively and creatively, by suggesting meaningful and innovative activities.
- Discovering talents, developing skills and refining hobbies.

- Providing the opportunity for university students to participate in activities and events that suit their inclinations and abilities.
- Supporting academic disciplines with a practical aspect to raise students' technical efficiency.

Student Happiness Council

The Student Council is the mirror that reflects the positive aspects of student work in any university, and this is represented in its ability to handle the challenges that may face students. The council enables students to stand in the face of what may face in their progress at the university. The Council also aims to support students in expressing theire views and opinions so that they may overcome difficulties, and remove everything that would hinder their progress at the university. The Council also seeks to achieve the desired goals of its existence that are supporting student activities in the scientific, cultural, social and sports fields, and promoting the spirit of cooperation and the concept of teamwork between students themselves and between students and the external community, developing democratic practices and the spirit of dialogue and respect for other opinions, as well as following up on students' issues and raising their awareness of their duties, preserving their achievements and coordinating with the university administration to solve their problems.

The development of the student's integrated and conscious personality and the promotion of belonging are the most important basics that build interaction between the Student Council and students in general, provide opportunities for positive interaction between students, colleges, university administration and employees, and support the academic, cultural and social process.

University Studio

The university studio seeks to refine students' artistic skills and develop their creativity spirit through training programs, plans and workshops provided by specialists in various artistic fields, such as painting, photography, Arabic calligraphy, sculpture, short film production, spray painting, graphic design, and other arts. It also supports talented students by organizing art exhibitions for them, highlighting their creativity and artistic achievements.

The university studio in its two sections, in the male and female sections, is the incubator that supports all the artistic and plastic talents of university students. It organizes courses and applied art workshops, exhibitions and art competitions for them. The number of students affiliated with the studio reached about (200) students, and our students have distinguished themselves in university competitions at the state level, and have won many awards over the past two years.

The university studio includes the following technical departments:

Drawing: Where students learn to draw with pencils and colors with various techniques, and students have reached a high technical level. They have learned to draw large paintings that exceed four meters in length, and this requires them a lot of skills and ability.

Photography: The Photography Club includes a large group of students interested in photography, and the Deanship uses those talented to cover some of the activities of the Deanship. The studio organizes photography trips to various tourist, heritage and artistic areas in the country, with the aim of educating students artistically, and introducing them to the most important landmarks in the UAE.

The Photography Club also presented a number of lectures on photography to improve students' levels in photography techniques.

Arabic Calligraphy: The University Studio organizes quarterly courses to teach Arabic calligraphy in cooperation with the Department of Culture in Sharjah. Among the students, a group of distinguished calligraphers stood out, and some of them won first rank in university competitions at the state level.

Handicrafts: including clay sculpture, wool works, printing and paintings, in addition to any new artistic talents that appear among students, as the studio adopts them and provides students with the required tools to make these talents successful and present them in exhibitions and forums appropriate to make them successful.

Cultural and social activities

The Department of Student Activity is considered a means of unloading potential energies, and a station for refining various talents, and therefore this department is interested in sponsoring all cultural, social and artistic activities for university students.

By supervising various artistic activities and organizing them according to programs prepared for this purpose, the work of the Student Activities Department extends to activating the role of clubs, student associations, the Student Union, mobile clans and all programs that serve extracurricular activities.

Among the general objectives on which the Student Activities Department is based:

1. Enhancing the spirit of belonging among students to their Arab and Islamic nation, and preparing a generation with a national personality.
2. Developing students' capabilities, refining their skills, and employing their talents in fruitful work to benefit from their creative and innovative abilities in various fields.
3. Strengthening ties and bonds of friendship with universities operating in the country, as well as Arab and international universities.
4. Contributing to the preparation of a balanced university personality together, with the student being the main focus for implementing these activities and achieving their goals.
5. Encouraging students to work collectively and voluntarily, instilling a spirit of cooperation in them, and directing them towards the optimal use of leisure time.

Sports activities

The Deanship of Student Affairs pays great attention to individual and group sports activities because of their impact on refining the student's personality. One of the first objectives of the Sports Activity Department is to practice sports activities, enjoy recreational activity, and occupy leisure time in a useful way, in addition to other objectives represented in:

1. Making room for the largest possible number of students and employees at the university to practice their hobbies and sports activities.
2. Preparing the university's sports teams to play friendly in competitive matches with universities, institutions and various clubs.
3. Developing and refining sports skills to the highest levels of university sports, bringing together faculty members and students, and creating an atmosphere of understanding.
4. Teaching students, the value of teamwork.
5. Representing the university in local and international forums by participating in all tournaments and sports.

Health Services

Based on the university's keenness on the public safety of each member of its family, the university provides medical clinics that provide integrated health care for university students during the study period, and the university also works to provide health insurance for students.

Campus Dormitories

1. The University is keen to provide adequate housing and any other necessary services for university students and to achieve calm and stability for them in a way that ensures the advancement of the university's educational functions and helps to achieve the following:
    a. Strengthening university values among students.
    b. Training students to take care of their time and organize their cultural, social, sports and recreational activities that accommodate their inclinations and develop their various extracurricular hobbies.
    c. Strengthening the spirit of harmony among students, achieving acquaintance between them, developing their sense of community, belonging to it, and working in one team.
2. The university housing is one of the units of the university and is subject in its management to the university's policies and procedures.
3. The Deanship of Student Affairs supervises the management of university housing and conducts its affairs in accordance with the university's policies and procedures.

Alumni Affairs

The Office of Career Guidance and Student Training supervises the affairs of the Alumni Association in the implementation of the objectives, and all articles contained in the Association's statute issued by His Highness the Supreme President.

The mission of the Alumni Association is to:

- Strengthen the relationship between the university and its graduates by raising their awareness of the importance of their role in developing educational curriculum plans.
- Instill and consecrate the concepts of belonging and loyalty among the ranks of graduates.
- Urge them to continue mutual giving and cooperation with the university to advance community service and continue to care for graduates.
- Provide the university with the outcome of the information acquired in various areas of working life, the actual needs of labor markets and the requirements for the development of community services.
- Work on the development of collective organizational work in order to achieve the objectives of the Association, and keep the graduate in constant contact with the academic climate to exchange views and update his scientific information.

- Invite some graduates who have assumed successful positions and positions in their specializations in large institutions and companies to provide advice to their brothers who are still studying on how to overcome obstacles and challenges and assume responsibilities based on their job experience.

About the Center

The Language Center at Al Qasimia University was established in the year 1434 AH, corresponding to 2014 AD. The Language Center at Al Qasimia University is a specialized academic unit, with its primary mission being to prepare foreign students (non-native Arabic speakers) and equip them to enroll in university courses across various humanities faculties at the university.

The center aims to fulfill various academic functions, such as mastering reading and scientific research, among others, in addition to achieving the function of daily communication, which is essential for students in many situations both inside and outside the university.

Vision of the Center:

A distinguished center in language education and a leader in teaching Arabic to non-native speakers.

Mission of the Center:

To develop learners' abilities across varying language proficiency levels, enabling them to master Arabic as a second language through an integrated linguistic approach that builds skills in listening, speaking, reading, and writing. The center addresses students' linguistic needs according to their academic specializations while fostering self-learning skills and critical thinking.

Objectives

The Language Teaching Center at Al Qasimia University aims to:

1. Providing high-quality education to students in the fields of language and learning.
2. Preparing students to join university faculties and departments across various specializations.
3. Offering continuous opportunities for students to develop effective lifelong self-learning strategies.
4. Developing a communication network that leverages the expertise of all center members in decision-making, particularly in teaching and assessment.
5. Establishing a communication network to facilitate dialogue between the center and other academic departments in the university, aiming to enhance curricula and actively contribute to interdisciplinary Arabic curricula.
6. Advancing knowledge in language learning and teaching through research and scholarly activity.
7. Providing a motivating workplace that respects cultural and individual diversity.
8. Equipping students with the necessary linguistic thinking skills to thrive in a competitive international academic environment.

College of Economics and Management

Introduction

The College of Economics and Management was established in 2017, shortly after Al Qasimia University commenced its operations in 2015.

The Department of Economics is dedicated to a comprehensive study of economics, focusing on theoretical foundations, practical applications, historical significance, and global importance.

The department is committed to advancing the field of economics and its critical role in shaping economic policy, promoting development, and contributing to a better understanding of global economic dynamics. Aligned with Al Qasimia University's overarching mission, vision, and objectives, the department emphasizes a wide range of specialized topics, including microeconomics, macroeconomics, Islamic economics, international economics, econometrics, labor economics, monetary economics, development economics, public finance economics, financial economics, managerial economics, industrial organization economics, and the history of economic thought. Each of these areas explores various aspects of economic theory, policy, and practice.

Our primary goal is to educate and empower students to become highly qualified economists, well-versed in the intricacies of economic theory, skilled in empirical analysis, and possessing a comprehensive understanding of economic history and international perspectives. We aspire to develop students who not only seek to acquire scientific knowledge but also cultivate analytical and problem-solving abilities, enabling them to engage in informed policy discussions and contribute to societal advancement.

The Department of Economics offers a comprehensive academic program, including a Bachelor's degree in Economics since its inception. This program aims to strike a balance between academic rigor and practical application, equipping graduates to excel in a variety of professional pathways. Our graduates are prepared to analyze economic issues, conduct thorough research, and make sound judgments that foster economic progress.

The department is committed to academic excellence, intellectual inquiry, community service, and a global perspective. We are dedicated to shaping our students into graduates who are well-prepared to meet the challenges of today's economic world, while also possessing a strong awareness of global cultural diversity and the principles of Islam in its message of tolerance and moderation.

Vision

The College of Economics and Management aspires to be a regionally ranked institution in business sciences, guided in all its endeavors by the principles and teachings of Islam as a tolerant religion open to the entire world.

Mission

The College of Economics and Management strives for leadership and innovation in business sciences at the regional level to educate and empower students to become effective professionals and leaders in their communities. This is achieved through the provision of high-quality academic services, distinguished applied scientific research, and effective community development.

Master's in Fiqh and Its Principles

General Program Description

The Master's Program in Fiqh and Its Principles at the College of Sharia and Islamic Studies aims to deepen knowledge of the concepts and topics of Islamic jurisprudence and its principles, as well as to foster research in these areas. The program is designed to enhance the skills and abilities of enrolled students, enabling them to clarify legal rulings related to Fiqh and its principles for the public. It also prepares students for higher administrative roles in the job markets they belong to, particularly in areas such as Sharia auditing and supervision, judicial and fatwa sectors, and more. Additionally, the program focuses on understanding the principles that can be followed to reach Sharia rulings and gaining insight into the foundations of ijtihad.

This is reflected through the compulsory and elective courses offered in the program, as well as the thesis that students prepare. The courses are distributed as follows: 18 credit hours of compulsory courses, 6 credit hours of elective courses, and 9 credit hours for the thesis in the specialized field, which will be discussed once it is ready for defense.

The total number of credit hours for the program is 33, aiming to academically and professionally prepare students to become scholars, judges, fatwa issuers, Sharia auditors, or Sharia arbitrators, among other roles.

Program Mission

Leadership in the science of Fiqh and its principles, within a framework of authenticity and modernity, excelling locally, regionally, and internationally.

Program Vision

The Department of Fiqh and Its Principles works to fulfill the mission of the College of Sharia and Islamic Studies, which focuses on graduating specialized professionals in the field of Fiqh and its principles. These graduates are characterized by moderation and balance, capable of competing and achieving excellence in the job market both regionally and internationally. The department adopts scientific research as a tool to meet the needs of society and contribute to its development, all while upholding ethical and social values and preserving Islamic identity.

Program Objectives and Learning Outcomes

Program Objectives

1. Equip students with a strong scientific and practical foundation in the field of Fiqh and its principles, enabling them to enhance their capacity for ijtihad (independent reasoning) and jurisprudential deduction.
2. Develop and refine students' research and academic skills, strengthening their understanding of the methodologies of jurists and scholars of Usul in deriving legal rulings.
3. Enable students to contribute to jurisprudential and Usul research that addresses contemporary issues, providing universities and institutions with skilled professionals well-versed in the objectives of Islamic law.
4. Encourage jurisprudential and Usul-based ijtihad among researchers by studying the approaches of leading jurists in deriving Sharia rulings to address modern challenges.

Learning Outcomes:

Upon completing the program requirements, the graduate will be able to:

Knowledge

1. Define both simple and complex, known and unknown terms in the science of jurisprudence and its principles comprehensively and specialized.
2. Identify the impact of jurisprudential and usulic rules, and the diversity of legislative sources, on the variety of jurisprudential ijtihad and its schools according to scientific research methodologies.

Skills

3. Analyze the methodologies of jurists in deriving legal rulings from their detailed evidence in an advanced and innovative manner.

4. Apply the concepts of jurisprudential rules, principles, and objectives in light of modern tools.

5. Distinguish legal rulings along with their detailed evidence and use them in solving issues related to contemporary jurisprudential developments.

Independence and Responsibility

6. Complete research and professional tasks assigned to them in the field of jurisprudence and its principles, as well as related specializations.

Role in Context

8. Prepare studies, scientific research, and lectures in light of developments in the field of jurisprudence and its principles, as well as related specializations.

Self-Development

8. Utilize acquired knowledge, skills, and ethics to address contemporary developments related to jurisprudence and its principles.

Master's in Arabic Language and Literature

General Program Description

Program Mission

We aim to equip the global community, particularly non-Arab communities, with distinguished academic competencies in the deep knowledge of the Arabic language and literature. This program respects the Arab-Islamic heritage and its contributions to the study of language, literature, and criticism. It opens objectively and balancedly to the latest global achievements in language studies and teaching, combining awareness and balance between tradition and modernity in linguistic and literary scientific research. Our goal is to uphold the noble responsibility of spreading the Arabic language and empowering its use in speaking, writing, dialogue, and research within the global community.

Program Vision

Our vision for this program is to excel in preparing advanced research competencies, especially for those who love and study the Arabic language, particularly non-Arabic speakers. These graduates will promote the Arabic language and strengthen its presence in their communities. They will be capable of researching both old and modern issues in Arabic language and literature through contemporary scientific research that aligns with the latest scientific achievements in perspectives, methods, and techniques. This will be done with scientific objectivity and a deep exploration of opinions, laws, and theories, while being informed of research accomplishments in global languages within the knowledge and research domain of Arabic language and literature, all framed within balanced intercultural dialogue.

Program Objectives and Learning Outcomes

Program Objectives

1. Preparing highly specialized academic competencies capable of conducting in-depth research and scientific study in Arabic language and literature.
2. Contributing to providing advanced qualification in the Arabic language and literature for non-native Arabic speakers.
3. Graduating scientific competencies required by research and higher educational institutions in the local community and in international brotherly and friendly communities, especially within the global Islamic community.
