Brief Bio

Professor Al Khalaf serves as the Chancellor of Al Qasimia University. Internationally recognized as an esteemed author, having penned several books on the science of Hadith. Additionally, he actively participates as a member in various educational institutions and academic committees.

His academic expertise lies in Sharia and Islamic studies, particularly in the Science of Hadith. He earned his BA degree in 1992 from Al Madinah Al Munawara University, followed by an MA degree from Kuwait University in 1998, and a PhD in Foundations of Religion from the University of Al Qarawiyyin in 2001. Throughout his career, he has mentored numerous postgraduate students, guiding them in the development of their theses and dissertations. Furthermore, he has conducted thorough reviews of academic works, journals, books, and theses, both locally and internationally, and has evaluated various academic programs.

In addition to his academic contributions, Professor Al Khalaf actively engages in community service. He provides in-person consultations and serves as a member of the Virtual University Experts Committee of the Federation of Universities of the Islamic World. In this capacity, he represented the University of Sharjah in symposiums, academic visits, and the development of memoranda of understanding across different regions of the Islamic World.

Professor Al Khalaf was the former Dean of College of Shari'a and Islamic Studies. His dedication and achievements in research, as well as his contributions to the field, have earned him several awards and certificates of appreciation from both international and local entities, as well as recognition from Heads of State.
